Aerial Bombardment Of Tobruk

Axis Claims Surrender Of Garrison; Situation In Libya Serious

LONDON, June 21.

A message despatched from Cairo at 11-00 G. M. T. declared that Tobruk's position was described as precarious.

The Axis attack on Tobruk yesterday began with aerial bombardment. Thereafter Axis tanks made a breach in the perimeter, through which their infantry followed them. Then tanks attacked again.

There is no confirmation so far in London of the Axis claim that the garrison of Tobruk surrendered this morning, but the claim cannot be ruled out as entirely improbable, Reuter's Military Correspondent learns. The military situation in Libya is very serious.

It has been clear that General Rommel's main objective would be Tobruk from the outset of the offensive. Indeed, he had apparently calculated on reaching it in his first daring sweep forward. He was foiled in his expectation, but has nevertheless persisted in his aim.

The advance towards the Egyptian frontier, reported on Friday, was obviously a feint meant to test our resources. Having satisfied himself that only light columns were threatening his flank, he swung back and threw the full weight of his attack against Tobruk.

NAZIS PENETRATE

CAIRO, June 21.

A communique states: "Yesterday, the enemy attacked the perimeter of Tobruk in great strength. In spite of most determined resistance by our forces, the enemy succeeded in penetrating the defences and occupying a considerable area inside them. The fighting continues."—Reuter.

Axis Forward Columns Reach Bardia Area

LONDON, June 21.

In Libya enemy forward columns on Friday have been on the move towards the Egyptian frontier. Last night they were reported to have reached the Bardia area and now may be in the town.—Reuter.

Enemy Positions Near Tobruk Raided

CAIRO, June 21.

An R. A. F. Middle East communique states:

"Enemy positions near Tobruk were raided by our Bomber aircraft yesterday (Saturday), while our fighters were active over the Forward Area. The harbour at Benghazi was attacked again last night. A further raid was carried out against the aerodrome at Tmimi. Elsewhere, targets in Crete were attacked in the course of night operations. Enemy aircraft unsuccessfully operated against our forward positions last night. None of our aircraft is missing.—Reuter.

BR. TANKS FOR 'AID RUSSIA PLAN'

LONDON, June 20.

Tanks which would have improved the Eighth Army's position in Libya were sent to the Red Army under "Aid Russia" plan.

The former Minister of Supply Mr. Leslie Burgin disclosed this at Bristol to-night. He said the British army was fighting in Libya knowing that "many tanks which would have offered better resistance to Gen. Rommel had been sent to Russia". The Allies, he added, were proud of the sacrifice entailed in honouring their bargain. While the Allies must do everything possible to draw off the forces attacking Russia, the task involved in a second front should not be minimised. The Russians who had destroyed the myth that the German army was invincible had something beyond military efficiency—an intense pride in their country which made them in a true sense deeply religious people. —Reuter.

SIMLA TRAIN HOLD-UP

Three Military Officials And Driver Killed

LAHORE, June 21.

A train was held up on the Simla-Kalka line last night by two unknown persons, who fired on the train resulting in the death of three passengers and the driver and injuries to four other passengers, according to a Press Note issued by the Divisional Transportation Superintendent, North Western Railway. The incident occurred between Taksal and Kalka at 9 p.m. last night.

SIMLA, June 21.

Four persons including Wing Commander H. R. W. Hogg, Boy Scouts Commissioner, Punjab and the driver, are reported to have been killed and a similar number wounded, as a result of shots fired by a gang of dacoits, who held up four-down rail motor, between Taksal and Kalka railway stations of the Kalka-Simla section of the North-Western Railway, according to unofficial reports reaching Simla.

It is gathered that the dacoits placed boulders on the track and took positions on a hill by the side of the railway lines. The driver, who noticed the boulders went down to remove the obstacle but was shot dead. The desperadoes then fired shots on the occupants, some of the bullets penetrating through the windows and hitting the passengers. The marauders then descended and ordered the passengers to hand over their purses which they had to comply with. The information of the outrage reached Kalka through a passenger. Relief was soon despatched and a police force was rushed to the spot. The whereabouts of the dacoits are not known.

Sir Percy Orde, Inspector-General of Police, Punjab, and the Superintendent of Police, Simla, have proceeded to the spot. Simla railway authorities are reticent.

The dead bodies of three passengers and the driver were brought to Simla, this evening, in a special train and taken to mortuary for post-mortem examination.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning.

NAMES OF KILLED MEN

The names of the killed are:—(1) Wing Commander H. R. W. Hogg, R.A.F.V.R., (2) Lieut.-Col. R. C. Waller, M.C. Baluch Regiment, (3) 2nd Lieutenant H. R. H. Hogg, 4|1st Gurkha Rifles, (4) Mir Wahidduddin driver.

MAILS ARE SAFE

According to a report received in Ambala, the belongings of the passengers were removed by the dacoits. The mails are reported to be safe.—A. P.

Hitler Makes No Speech

Goebbels On Nazi Casualties In Icy Arctic And African Desert

Hitler and Goebbels attended the funeral ceremonies on Sunday afternoon of the former Nazi transport expert Huehnlein.

Despite some expectations Hitler made no public speech but contended himself with laying a wreath on the coffin.

Goebbels in a brief funeral oration said, "One after another of National Socialist figures are passing away. Scarcely a day passes, when we have not to mourn the death of one or other of our best and truest friends fallen in the vastness of Russia, in the North African Desert or the icy Arctic.—Reuter.

VICHY, June 21.

The puppet President of the Czech Protectorate, Dr. Hacha, declared in a broadcast to his countrymen: "Any disloyalty towards the Reich will be punished. "ROMMEL'S NEXT BLOW"

LONDON, June 21.

From Reuter's special correspondent:—SOLLUM PASS: Allied forces in the triangle formed by Halfaya, Sollum and Fort Capuzzo are preparing for Rommel's next blow which may be launched against the Egyptian frontier. Great activity is again going on in this area which has already witnessed so much fighting. This triangle is Egypt's eastern gateway and unless the enemy can subdue its fortifications the road to Suez will remain barred. At the foot of Sollum Pass where an 800 feet escarpment juts into the Mediterranean I can hear far away the shudder of guns. The little Egyptian fishing village of Sollum with its shattered houses may again hear the crash of shells.—Reuter.

Mines Laid By U-Boat Off Coast Of Virginia

WASHINGTON, June 21.

One merchantship has been lost, another damaged off the coast of Virginia through mines, announced the United States navy department on Saturday. At first it was believed that the vessels had been torpedoed.

U. S. TREASURY MUST RETAIN ITS SILVER

WASHINGTON, June 21.

The Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Morgenthau's request for authority to send part of the National silver stocks to other United Nations was opposed on Saturday by the Senate "Silver Bloc."

Senator Mccarran who was designated as spokesman for Senators from the States producing or interested in the metal said that the group decided in closed session on Saturday that "the treasury should retain its silver to back up their own currency."

Senator Mccarran said that the Silver Bloc was perfectly willing that silver be used in the United States for non-consumptive purposes.

Mr. Morgenthau Jones and Mr. Donnelson have urged legislation to permit the use of Treasury silver to replace copper as conductor of electricity in warplants or for use in other operations where this metal might later be recalled.

Senator Mccarran said that the Silver Senators opposed the sending of Treasury Silver outside the United States on the ground that it might be used later to debase the value of United States money.

"The Nation with most of the world's gold and silver will be a powerful nation at the peace table", Senator Mccarran said.—Reuter.

Spring Off 'Spring Offensive'

RED ARMY UPSETS HITLER'S TIME TABLE

MOSCOW, June 21.

Hitler is unable now to launch a general offensive on the eastern front, but can hope only for local successes, declares the President of the Supreme Soviet M. Kalinin, writing in the official newspaper Izvestia on the first anniversary of German attack on Russia.

RUSSIA CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

M. Kalinin writes: "The Russian people are now fully armed and meet the invader confident of victory. We have all the war material and arms we require to attain this end. The German much advertised spring offensive has not materialised and I can say with confidence that the German army is unable now to launch a general offensive on the whole front. The invader's initiative has been wrested from him and his initial success checked.

NAZI MORALE GOES DOWN

Hitler can hope only for local success. The German army is not now what it was twelve months ago. Its morale is low. It has ceased to be homogeneous and become a thing of patches. Hitler's allies are now indispensable to him for German reserves are being gradually exhausted."

M. Kalinin also emphasises the growing ties of friendship with Britain and America.

PRIMATE'S PLEA FOR DYNAMIC PEACE

LONDON, June 21.

The Archbishop of Canterbury Dr. Temple, preaching at Oxford to-day said: "Peace must be conceived not as mere absence of fighting but as a positive dynamic force. Peace in the negative sense may be an ignoble thing grounded in complacency or cowardice. We must remain on war footing after the war so that our assertion of goodwill against greed may be effective. If democracy is to live in the modern world it will lay more emphasis on duties than on rights."—Reuter.

ATTLEE OPENS "AID OF RUSSIA WEEK"

LONDON, June 20.

The vital necessity of the continuance of British aid to Russia was emphasised to-day by the Deputy Prime Minister Mr. Attlee opening the "Aid Of Russia Week" at Stepney, East London.

Shortly before the meeting he had spoken on the Trans-Atlantic phone to Mr. Churchill who "seemed to be in very good form".

Mr. Attlee said: "Supplies have been going through to Russia and we will continue to help them. The Russians have blunted the German weapon but not destroyed it. They are putting up a magnificent defence which in due course will turn to offence and utter rout of the common enemy but all the help we can lend will be needed. M. Molotov's visit has done a great deal to bring about closer understanding with our people and closer co-operation".—Reuter.

SLAVES OF HITLER—ENEMIES OF FREEDOM

LONDON, June 21.

German workmen were asked how long they were going to support Hitler and warned that the longer they did so the greater would be the price they would have to pay by the Minister of Labour Mr. Ernest Bevin, broadcasting to-night on the Anniversary of the Invasion of Russia. He said: "We have sat with you as fellow Trade Unionists at conferences. Can you, members of the working classes of Germany, be a willing party, to the torture of fellow Trade Unionists in Poland, Czechoslovakia and other occupied countries? How long are you going to allow this madness in your own country? It may be no use appealing to you but if it is not, then at least let it be a warning of what your fellow workmen feel in other countries about your acquiescence and support of this terrorist rule. When we have won the War those who have first place at the conference table will be those who fought for us and not those who sought to oppose freedom or supported the aggressor." He concluded, "we will let no consideration stand in the way of the destruction of the hated monster (Hitler)."—Reuter.

WAVELL GREETS RUSSIAN FORCES

NEW DELHI, June 21.

The following message has been sent by H. E. Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, Commander-in-Chief in India, to the Commander of the Russian forces on the first anniversary of the Russo-German war:

"On what I hope may prove the only anniversary during the war of the treacherous blow struck by Germany against your country, I beg you to convey to the indomitable land, sea and air forces of Russia, greetings from myself and from the fighting services of the India Command. The courage and endurance of the Russian forces and the Russian people have rightly evoked the admiration and gratitude of the world. We wish all success to your arms. I should like to add a personal message of good wishes to a people and a country I have known and so greatly liked since more than thirty years ago.—A. P.

EX-MINISTER'S SUPPORT TO RUSSIA

BOMBAY, Sunday.

A public meeting was held this evening at the Cama Oriental Institute to celebrate the first Anniversary of Soviet resistance. The meeting was held under the joint auspices of the Radical Democratic Party, the National Democratic Union and the Bombay Presidency Indian Federation of Labour. Mr. B. M. Jadhav, ex-Minister of Bombay Government presided.

Mr. Jadhav paid tribute to the heroic resistance of Russia to German aggression and spoke about the united will of the Russians to destroy Fascism.

Russia had much to teach India. By socialising agriculture and industries, Russia had solved the problems of unemployment, and economic inequalities. By denationalising religion Russia had destroyed the hold that priestcraft exercised over the masses.

He suggested that only by helping in the destruction of international fascism and later socialising the state could the problems of India be solved.

Mr. Tyeb Sheikh condemned the narrow national outlook of certain politicians. He criticised Gandhism as a species of fascism.

A resolution moved by Mr. Tyeb Sheikh assuring Russian people of active support in the fight against Fascism was passed unanimously.

Other speakers were Major Bamji, Mr. H. M. Mody, Mrs. Kalyani Bhattacharji and Miss Sushila Jadhav.

THE "RUSSIAN GLORY"

A year ago to-day, Herr Hitler perpetrated another and the biggest act of cynical treachery. He suddenly fell upon Soviet Russia with which he had sworn "eternal friendship". The object was simple and typical: to rob Russia and literally live on her blood. The plan was to crush the military resistance of the country within ten weeks and then to overrun and to organise it economically and otherwise for the benefit of the Wehrmacht and the Reich with, perhaps, the Kremlin as the headquarters of Russia's "Protector" Herr Alfred Rosenberg. The Wehrmacht began very well, indeed. With its satellites it rolled over a great part of European Russia in its usual spectacular and dangerous manner. But it had counted without its victims. The Fuehrer and his military machine met with a unique experience. The victims exacted a painful price for every annihilating and disintegrating "victory" and, what is worse, the "annihilated" and "disintegrated" enemy simply refused to be annihilated and disintegrated. He fell back and fought on, never weakening, never yielding.

A Heavy Price

Russia has suffered in the process. She has suffered as no other country with the exception of China has suffered. She has lost millions of gallant youth of the regular army and millions of those coldblooded heroes, the men and women of all ages who fought as guerillas with a full knowledge of the barbaric tortures that were to be their lot. She has lost her richest and best developed territories industrial as well as agricultural. And, again with the same possible exception of China, she has lost them with unparalleled, staggering cheerfulness. China's "scorched earth" found fresh and more dramatic sanctity in Russia. The "sacrificial sabotage" of the Dnepropetrovsk Dam will always live in history. All this is heavy price but a price well worth paying for the inestimable blessing of national freedom.

Bulwark Of Allied Cause

Russia paid gladly and wholeheartedly. And the results have justified it. Herr Hitler's plans have gone tragically awry and his dreams have turned to nightmares. He almost reached Leningrad, Moscow and the Caucasus in October last. And then with amazing gallantry the repeatedly annihilated Red Army struck back and the Fuehrer has himself placed it on record that his Wehrmacht was facing disaster. Here it is not necessary to go into the well-known details of the past. The situation is that the super-Napolean of Nazi Germany who started to crush Russia in ten weeks still finds her very much alive and kicking for after twelve months. He thought he would break Russia almost as cheaply as he broke France. Instead, he has received blows which, although they may not have crippled him decisively, have certainly ensured his ultimate and complete defeat. He is still able to strike hard—in fact, he proposes to celebrate the first anniversary of the attack on his "eternal friend" by storming into Sebastopol. But Russia, the Red Army and the Soviet leaders have now proved to him that Russia is not going to be "crushed". To-day Russia stands defiant and glorious if also gory, and a towering bulwark of the Allied cause. On this anniversary of Russia's magnificent fight against Germany we recall the tributes recently paid by President Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill. Nothing, declared the former, the United Nations could do to help Russia would compare with what Russia had done for the common cause. This is as true as Mr. Churchill's description of the last twelve months as the period of "Russian Glory". It is literally "Russian Glory" that the world is celebrating to-day with admiration and gratitude.

Rommel Threatens Egypt

Speculations are bound to be provoked as to the main purpose of Mr. Churchill's visit to President Roosevelt. Was it undertaken because of the new threat to Egypt? It is, however, pointed out that the visit was planned before the situation changed so radically. This is true. But it is also true that the situation has developed critically and is still developing. According to the Axis claim the garrison of Tobruk has surrendered. Though there is so far no confirmation in London of this claim it is not entirely ruled out. A message from Cairo declared that Tobruk's position was described as precarious and General Rommel's forces,, in spite of most determined resistance, succeeded in penetrating its defences and occupying a considerable area inside them. So, we may soon expect the confirmation of the German claim about the surrender of the gallant defenders of Tobruk. Apart from this, the Germans are now in Bardia on the Egyptian frontier. The opponents are once more back to the position in November last. But with this difference: paradoxically enough, the Axis are stronger in comparison with the British than they were then. What actually happened nine days ago to turn the tables so completely, how and why are questions yet to be answered. But General Rommel and his Panzers are very much on top to-day and President Roosevelt and Mr Churchill will have to do something quickly to save the situation

Power Alcohol

One of the recommendations of the American Technical Mission is "further investigation into the possibility of producing power alcohol." This is a very important recommendation in view of the growing shortage of petrol and the usefulness of power alcohol as a good source of motive power in combination with petrol. There need not have been any ground for this recommendation if the Government of India had responded to the long-standing appeals of Indian businessmen and the public in general to utilise for the purpose of preparing power alcohol the huge quantities of molasses that were running waste in the Indian sugar factories. The Congress Government of the United Provinces were the first to start producing power alcohol on a small scale but further progress was cut short by the war and the difficulty of importing plants for production on a large scale. The Governments of Bihar, the Punjab and Bombay are making efforts in the same direction and are experiencing the same difficulties about plants. But the Government of India have recently expressed their willingness to obtain priorities for the supply and shipment of power alcohol plants from America. The American mission, too, has recommended the supply of all machinery necessary for the carrying out of its recommendations. We are also told that plants can be built locally and that two Bombay firms are already making them. Provincial Governments and the businessmen concerned should promptly seize the opportunities so provided.

Frankly Speaking

Offensive Slackens?

The Japanese offensive in Chekiang and Kiangsi is reported to have slackened. In fact, the Japanese are stated to be withdrawing from some of their advance positions. This is not altogether surprising since Chinese resistance has been extremely fierce and bitter. This has increased for the Japanese difficulties of holding the whole of the 400 miles long Kiangsi-Chekiang railway which is regarded as another reason for Japanese withdrawals. But all this may well be temporary. And in any case there is the danger of the Japanese intensifying their pressure upon the more vital province of Yunnan and driving against it with concentrated force. The gravity of the situation has by no means diminished because of a comparative lull in the eastern provinces, nor has the extreme urgency of China's needs.

Let Well Alone

Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan is a man of very few words, and when he issues a public statement, it is certain there is urgent need for it and all concerned must look up. In a statement issued by him the other day he points out that though he and his co-workers "have been carrying on purely peaceful and humanitarian work among Frontier villagers," the Government are now "creating difficulties in our way." He concludes the statement with the words: "We have done our utmost to avoid clash but under the circumstances can we give up our peaceful and humanitarian work?" We can imagine him saying quietly to himself: "Never." In their own interests the local authorities should leave and his work alone.

Hindu-Muslim Defence Leagues

The Mymensingh correspondent of the "Amrit Bazar Patrika" reports that more than ten thousand volunteers have been enrolled in the "Janaraksha Bahinis" (Civil Defence Leagues) in the district and that this volunteer force consists of both Hindus and Muslims. The correspondent says further: "Miss Razia Khatun of West Jamalpur is unceasingly working among the people of her locality and has brought them under the Congress banner. The communal organisations of both the Hindus and the Muslims are finding no favour anywhere in view of the common danger. It is common knowledge that a defence party set up by a communal organisation has thrown off its allegiance and has joined with the Congress." This is an excellent lead, indeed, and deserves to be widely followed, particularly by those who quarrel about communal ratios on civil defence committees.

What Withdrawal Of British Means

Mahatma's Interview With American Journalist

Mr. Mahadev Desai writes in the latest "Harijan":—

"There has been a great deal of questioning in America and India as to the nature of your activities during the balance of the War. I should like to know what it will be like," said Mr. Grover, the representative of the Associated Press of America. "But can you tell me when the War will end?" said Gandhiji laughing.

IT WILL BE FELT BY THE WORLD

Coming to the point Mr. Grover said again: "There is a good deal of speculation that you are planning some new movement. What is the nature of it?"

"It depends on the response made by the government and the people. I am trying to find out public opinion here and also the reaction on the world outside."

"When you speak of the response, you mean response to your new proposal?"

"Oh yes," said Gandhiji, "I mean response to the proposal that the British Government in India should end to-day. Are you startled?"

"I am not," said Mr. Grover, "you have been asking for it and working for it."

"That's right. I have been working for it for years. But now it has taken definite shape and I say that the British power in India should go to-day for the world peace, for China, for Russia and for the Allied cause. I shall explain to you how it advances that Allied cause. Complete independence frees India's energies, frees her to make her contribution to the world crisis. To-day the Allies are carrying the burden of a huge corpse—a huge nation lying prostrate at the feet of Britain. I would even say at the feet of the Allies. For America is the predominant partner, financing the war, giving her mechanical ability and her resources which are inexhaustible. America is thus a partner in the guilt."

"Do you see a situation when after full independence is granted American and Allied troops can operate from India?" Mr. Grover pertinently asked.

WHAT FREE INDIA CAN DO

"I do", said Gandhiji. "It will be only then that you will see real co-operation. Otherwise all the effort you put up may fail. Just now Britain is having India's resources because India is her possession. To-morrow whatever the help, it will be real help from a 'free' India."

"You think India in control interferes with Allied action to meet Japan's aggression?"

"It does."

"When I mentioned Allied troops operating I wanted to know whether you contemplated complete shifting of the present troops from India?"

"Not necessarily."

"It is on this that there is a lot of misconception."

"You have to study all I am writing. I have discussed the whole question in the current issue of 'Harijan'. I do not want them to go, on condition that India becomes entirely free. I cannot then insist on their withdrawal because I want to resist with all my might the charge of inviting Japan to India."

"But suppose your proposal is rejected, what will be your next move?"

"It will be a move which will be felt by the whole world. It may not interfere with the movement of British troops but it is sure to engage British attention. It would be wrong of them to reject my proposal and say India should remain a slave in order that Britain may win or be able to defend China. I cannot accept that degrading position. India free and independent will play a prominent part in defending China. To-day I do not think she is rendering any real help to China. We have followed the non-embarrassment policy so far. We will follow it even now. But we cannot allow the British Government to exploit it in order to strengthen the strangle-hold on India. And to-day it amounts to that. The way, for instance, in which thousands are being asked to vacate their homes with nowhere to go to, no land to cultivate, no resources to fall back upon is the reward of our non-embarrassment. This should be impossible in any free country. I cannot tolerate India submitting to this kind of treatment. It means greater degradation and servility and when a whole nation accepts servility it means good-bye for ever to freedom."

INDIA'S GAINS FROM BRITISH VICTORY

"All you want is the civil grip relaxed. You won't then hinder military activity?" was Mr. Grover's next question.

"I do not know. I want unadulterated independence. If the military activity serves but to strengthen the strangle-hold, I must resist that too. I am no philanthropist to go on helping at the expense of my freedom. And what I want you to see is that a corpse cannot give any help to a living body. The Allies have no moral cause for which they are fighting, so long as they are carrying this double sin on their shoulders, the sin of India's subjection and the subjection of the Negroes and African races."

Mr. Grover tried to draw a picture of a free India 'after' an Allied victory. Why not wait for the boons of victory? Gandhiji mentioned as the boons of the last World War the Rowlatt Act and martial law and Amritsar. Mr. Grover mentioned more economic and industrial prosperity—by no means due to the grace of the government, but by the force of circumstances, and economic prosperity was a step further forward to Swaraj. Gandhiji said the few industrial gains were wrung out of unwilling hands, he set no store by such gains after this war, those gains may be further shackles, and it was a doubtful proposition whether there would be any gains—when one had in mind the industrial policy that was being followed during the war. Mr. Grover did not seriously press the point.

WHAT CAN AMERICA DO?

"You don't expect any assistance from America in persuading Britain to relinquish her hold on India," aked Mr. Grover half incredulously.

"I do indeed," replied Gandhiji.

"With any possibility of success?"

"There is every possibility. I should think", said Gandhiji. "I have every right to expect America to throw her full weight on the side of justice, if she is convinced of the justice of the Indian cause."

"You don't think the American Government is committed to the British remaining in India?"

"I hope not. But British diplomacy is so clever that America, even though it may not be committed, and in spite of the desire of President Roosevelt and the people to help India it may not succeed. British propaganda is so well organised in America against the Indian cause that the few friends India has there have no chance of being effectively heard. And the political system is so rigid that public opinion does not affect the administration."

"It may, slowly," said Mr. Grover apologetically.

"Slowly?" said Gandhiji. "I have waited long, and I can wait no longer. It is a terrible tragedy that 40 crores of people should have no say in this war. If we have the freedom to play our part we can arrest the march of Japan and save China."

WHAT DO YOU PROMISE TO DO?

Mr. Grover, having made himself sure that Gandhiji did not insist on the literal withdrawal of either the British or the troops, now placing himself in the position of the Allies, began to calculate the gains of the bargain. Gandhiji of course does not want independence as a reward of any services, but as a right and in discharge of a debt long overdue. He is not going to be "crushed". To-day Russia stands defiant and glorious if also gory, and a towering bulwark of the Allied cause. On this anniversary of Russia's magnificent fight against Germany we recall the tributes recently paid by President Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill. Nothing, declared the former, the United Nations could do to help Russia would compare with what Russia had done for the common cause. This is as true as Mr. Churchill's description of the last twelve months as the period of "Russian Glory". It is literally "Russian Glory" that the world is celebrating to-day with admiration and gratitude.

INDIA NEEDS

Thousand Crore Post-War Five Year Plan

VISVESVARAYA SAYS COUNTRY TODAY NEEDS PROPER INDUSTRIAL ORGANISATION BACKED BY GOVT.

BOMBAY, Sunday.

Addressing the first quarterly meeting of the Central Committee of the All-India Manufacturers' Organisation at the Industrial building to-day, Sir M. Visvesvaraya, President of the Organisation said that what India needed to-day was a proper industrial structure and organisation backed by Government and by the joint strength of the leaders of industry and trade or by one of these agencies.

He also suggested a thousand-crore five-year plan for industrial development of India after the war.

"Almost any article can be manufactured in this country" he said. "Foreign manufacturers are willing to give their advice or start branch factories in India on reasonable terms. I trust that the Indian business communities will take advantage of the presence of technicians whom the American Government is shortly going to send, to improve the business methods of leaders and managers and the working capacity of our labour population."

POST-WAR PLAN

Suggesting a post-war industrial scheme, Sir M. Visvesvaraya said:

"At the end of this war it should probably be necessary to launch industrial schemes involving an outlay of, say, Rs. 1,000 crores or more on a five-year plan. This sum is not large considering the vast resources of this country and the enormous size of its population. Canada which has a population of only 3 per cent of that of India, has already developed industries in which over Rs. 1,100 crores of capital has been invested. For want of official statistics such as are maintained in Canada, the corresponding expenditure in India is not known. It is perhaps less than Rs. 800 crores."

U. S. TECHNICAL MISSION

Referring to the recommendations of the American Technical Mission he said:—

"The recommendations of the American Technical Mission have reference only to war work. The Mission has not taken any notice either of post-war requirements or deficiences in peace time industrial practices. Its full report will, however, be awaited with interest.

After Sir M. Visvesvaraya's speech, the meeting of the Central Committee considered and adopted the report presented by the Working Committee, covering the work of the organisation.

U. K. C. C.

The Vice-President of the organisation, in his speech, drew the attention of the Committee to the various obstacles placed by Government in the way of rapid industrialisation of the country. He referred to the United Kingdom Commercial Corporation which, he said, was "interfering with the legitimate rights of the Indian commercial community." He urged the Government to make public the functions and activities of the Corporation.

MASS MOVEMENT INOPPORTUNE

Nariman's Statement

Mr. K. F. Nariman, M.L.A., has issued the following statement:—

'Young India' was of late despairing of Pandit Jawaharlal. It often complained that his recent pronouncements and statements betrayed a pro-imperialistic tendency. Instead of his usual belligerent anti-imperialist 'Get Out' slogan, they were puzzled to hear a declaration of 'guerilla warfare' to preserve that imperialism in India.

Hence a demonstration of original extremist Jawahar's mentality and Jawaharlal's militant heroic explosions were necessary, to remove that mis-impression and apprehension from enthusiastic Indian youth, and reassure the masses that this 'stormy petrel' of the Congress still maintains and retains the old political reputation of being the 'most extremist' Indian leader; his politics, at least on paper, go far beyond philosophical Gandhian mentality and also further than logical parliamentarism. The four-columned statement at the Bombay Press interview will re-assure political 'Young India', and will also restore his political reputation for extremism.

AT TRIPURI CONGRESS

Recently he has been performing such quick and smart political somersaults that it would be pertinent to remind him of his attitude, a few years ago, at Tripuri Congress when the President-elect, Subhas Babu, planned a similar campaign, based on same slogan of 'Quit India' and, with that object, proposed a resolution in the open Congress sessions to give six months' notice and ultimatum to British, and, on non-compliance, to start a mass movement. The same extremist leader, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, not only most vigorously and strongly opposed that proposition, but further ridiculed and pooh-poohed the idea, criticising it as a cheap attempt to play to the gallery. A six months' ultimatum is certainly a less drastic demand than immediate evacuation with bag and baggage, without any notice; still that milder demand was opposed and sarcastically described by Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru and his Gandhian colleagues, as an empty meaningless political stunt and demonstration, not worthy of serious consideration by a responsible political organisation like the Congress; and it was even cruelly suggested that the object was to gain cheap popularity for the mover, and was a tactical move to out-wit his political opponents and capture mass imagination. At the end of 1937 at Tripuri session of the National Congress, the Nation was certainly better prepared than now; communal tension had not reached its present pitch, and, above all, Congress was more united, had much greater hold and influence over the masses, and commanded greater respect and had higher prestige, status and power, than to-day.

The war was not yet declared, and there was no immediate danger of a brutal and ruthless Fascist invasion. The time was more opportune and there was no foreign external menace. That proposition then was also more fair to the opponents, and had not even the appearance of stabbing in the back an opponent when he is cornered, or exploiting a calamity like the present one. We wonder what has become of Gandhiji's high-sounding morality of not embarrassing an enemy whilst he is in difficulties?

RESIST JAPAN

If six months' ultimatum to Britain in 1937 'to quit' was, according to Jawaharlal and his friends, a mere political stunt and playing to the gallery and playing with fire etc., may we ask how to-day, under such less favourable and more risky circumstances, do the same oracles attempt to justify the present slogan of 'Immediately Get Out'? Apart from the unreasoning following of blind herd, the discriminating and intelligent critics, even in the Congress, will naturally view with suspicion this sudden change in front, and with justification apply the same unkind epithets to the present imperialism-hunters, as the sponsors of the present move flung at Subhas Babu in 1937-38 from Tripuri Congress platform.

We quite agree with Jawaharlal that mere slogan shouting does not carry us an inch nearer the goal. Just as the Communist slogan of 'People's War' does not make it a popular struggle, so also his slogan of 'Get Out' will not result in immediate evacuation of the British.

Again his appeal to Indian youth, to emulate the inspiring example of Chinese youth, who magnificently resisted Japanese aggression for five years, will be applauded and endorsed by all; but may we ask, had Marshal Chiang appealed to the Chinese youth to resist the aggressor by non-violent and non-co-operation only, as Pandit and his Guru Gandhiji, are appealing to the Indian youth? That insipid and impotent resistance would not have lasted for more than five days.

Panditji evidently believes that Jap imperialism is as bad; or even worse than British. If that is so, then Jap occupation would further retard the Congress goal of Independence; hence as a first and necessary step towards Indian Independence, he must resist that invasion, according to his latest declaration, even with sword; otherwise, after the apprehended hostile yellow domination, far from gettting an opportunity of dangling a sword, he may not even get a chance to utter his heroic slogans.

Listen To The Truth.

I am 40 years old and was suffering from disastrous diseases uncurable in my life. I tried very many Doctors, Hakims and Vaidyas who used to advertise in a very charming, attractive and sweet words. Their treatment proved useless to me and the disease took serious position, and I left the hope of getting cure.

In the meantime I read the following advertisement:

"World-Famous Dr. & Hakim M. A. Bux, of Manu Mansion, near Sandhurst Bridge, Tram Term., Bombay 4, M.D.H. & T.H. First Class Gold Medalist having degrees from Medical Colleges, and who is proud of having the profession inheritance coming down from Mogul Empire. Heaps of gold medals and testimonials from Rajas, Maharajas and Govt. High Officers and well experienced Doctors are kept open for visitors to have full verification to their full satisfaction, and to come to the conclusion that this is not only writy but it is reality also.

DISEASES CURED: — Nervous debility, sexual weakness, spermatorrhoea, syphilis, gonorrhoea, impotency, piles, etc."

After reading the above advt. and having faith in God, I went to the said doctor and received treatment. Now I am not only healthy but enjoying enviable health. I thank doctor from the bottom of my heart and pray for his long life, so that the sufferers may take advantage of his abilities. Foreigners Will Come As Sharers In Spoil

No Question Of My Approval Of Subhas Babu's Policy, Says Gandhiji

AHMEDABAD, June 21.

"I have no desire whatsoever to woo any Power to help India in her endeavour to free herself from the foreign yoke. I have no desire to exchange the British for any other rule", writes Mahatma Gandhi in "Harijan" in reply to a correspondent who states: "You do not hear the radio messages. I do most assiduously. They interpret your writings as if your leanings were in favour of the Axis Powers and you had now veered round to Subhas Babu's views about receiving outside help to overthrow the British Rule. I would like you to clear your position in this matter. Misinterpretation of your known views has reached a dangerous point."

Mahatma Gandhi adds, "Better the enemy I know than the one I do not. I have never attached the slightest importance or weight to the friendly professions of the Axis Powers. If they come to India they will come not as deliverers but as sharers in the spoil. There can therefore be no question of my approval of Subhas Babu's Policy. The old difference of opinion between us persists. This does not mean that I doubt his sacrifice or his patriotism. But my appreciation of his patriotism and sacrifice cannot blind me to the fact that he is misguided and that his way can never lead to India's deliverance. If I am impatient of the British yoke, I am so because India's sullenness and suppressed delight of the man in the street over British reverses are dangerous symptoms which may lead to the success of Japanese designs upon India, if they are not dealt with in the proper manner, whereas India finding herself in possession of complete freedom will never want the Japanese to enter India. India's sullenness and discontent will be changed as if by magic into joyful and hearty cooperation with the Allies in consolidating and preserving her liberty from any and every evil design.—A.P.

Gandhiji On What India In Bondage Means

AHMEDABAD, June 21.

"But what about your non-violence? To what extent will you carry out your policy after freedom is gained?"

Answering this question Mahatma Gandhi writes in "Harijan":

"The question hardly arises. I am using the first personal pronoun for brevity, but I am trying to represent the spirit of India as I conceive it. It is and will be a mixture. What policy the National Government will adopt I cannot say. I may not even survive it much as I would love to. If I do, I would advise the adoption of non-violence to the utmost extent possible and that will be India's great contribution to the peace of the world and the establishment of a new World Order.

I expect that with the existence of so many martial races in India, all of whom will have a voice in the Government of the day, the national policy will incline towards militarism of a modified character. I shall certainly hope that all the effort for the last 22 years to show the efficacy of non-violence as a political force will not have gone in vain and a strong party representing true non-violence will exist in the country. In every case, a free India in alliance with the Allied powers must be of great help to their cause, whereas India held in bondage as she is to-day must be a drag upon the war-chariot and may prove a source of real danger at the most critical moment.—A.P.

"HINDU" CLARIFIES GANDHIJI'S STAND

Reply To London "Times" Criticism

MADRAS, June 20.

The "Hindu" in the course of an editorial under caption "Gandhiji's stand" replying to London "Times" criticism says:—

"Gandhiji's slogan "Quit India" has been seized upon with equal avidity by propagandists as a serviceable red herring to draw across the trail of the Indian nationalist. He has already explained what he does not mean by it. He does not want the individual Britisher to leave India. He is not against foreign armies operating on Indian soil, if they do so with India's consent. The one thing he insists on is that India should be Free forthwith as Britain herself or the United States is; that her part in the war should be at least as voluntary as that of Australia, for instance, and that she should have at least as much say in her own defence and in the conduct of the war generally".

The paper adds: "The "Times" looks upon the Cripps' proposals as "an immense moral asset to the British Cause". If the acceptance of India's right to Independence was the kernel of those proposals, does it not stand to reason that that part of the scheme should be given practical effect forthwith as Gandhiji asks, leaving all other matters to be considered after the war".—A. 'ALLIES OF FREE INDIA'

AHMEDABAD, June 21.

"What is the meaning of your appeal to the British power to withdraw from India? You have written much recently on the subject. But there seems to be confusion in the public mind about your meaning".

Answering this question Mahatma Gandhi writes in "Harijan": "So far as my own opinion is concerned, British authority should end completely irrespective of the wishes or demand of various parties. But I would recognise their own military necessity. They may need to remain in India for preventing Japanese occupation. That prevention is common cause between them and us. It may be necessary for the sake also of China.

Therefore, I would tolerate their presence in India not in any sense as rulers but as Allies of Free India. This of course assumes that after the British declaration of withdrawal, there will be a stable Government established in India. Immediately, the hindrance in the shape of a foreign power is altogether removed and the Union of parties should be an easy matter. The terms on which the Allied powers may operate will be purely for the Government of the Free State to determine. The existing parties will have dissolved into the National Government. If they survive they will do so for party purposes and not for dealings with the external world.—A. P.

Andhra Confidence In Gandhiji's Leadership

AMALAPURAM, June 20.

Resolutions wholeheartedly endorsing the main resolutions of the A.I.C.C. passed at Allahabad recently and inviting the attention of the country to its operative clause at the end were passed by the Working Committee of the Andhra Provincial Congress Committee which met here to-day.

The Committee expressed full confidence in the leadership of Mahatma Gandhi and the guidance he might give to the nation "in this hour of National peril."—A.P.

POOLING COFFEE.

BANGALORE, June 20.

It is understood the Indian Coffee Market Expansion Board considered it essential for the entire coffee crop to be taken into the surplus pool to ensure better returns for the grower. It therefore decided among other things to recommend to the Central Government that the provisions of the Indian Coffee Market Expansion Act should be made applicable to all estates of five acres and above in extent instead of estates of ten acres and above in extent as now.—A. "PAKISTAN FIRST"

Khaliquzzaman's Reply To Jawahar's Statement

ABBOTTABAD, June 20.

Referring to the recent statement of Pandit Nehru at Bombay was made by Chaudhry Khaliquzzaman addressing a public meeting at Abbottabad. He said "Pandit Nehru has expressed his willingness to meet Mr. Jinnah but Nehru thinks that the meeting will not be useful as there is no common basis for discussion but if Mr. Jinnah agreed to join in fighting the British, the question of Pakistan could be settled later on.

I do not know, continued Chaudhry Khaliquzzaman, what new contribution Pandit Nehru has made in his lengthy statement. It is the same and old story in a different language. Mr. Jinnah may give the same reply namely "accept Pakistan and we will then make common cause for the freedom of India".

The Congress leaders forget, said Chaudhry Khaliquzzaman, that the offer of Sir Stafford Cripps in allowing self-determination to provinces has materially altered the situation. Pakistan is not now a mere demand of the Muslims but it has received recognition from British statesmen. The offer of the Congress in asking the League to put aside the Pakistan claim till the country has attained freedom, is only meant to confuse the issue and deceive the people.—A. P.

The Half-Column By "Dim"

A year ago to-day, Germany declared war on Russia, its erstwhile ally. Satiated with his victories in Europe, Hitler's greed remained unsatisfied. From a Corporal he had risen to become the Fuehrer of Germany. From being the Fuehrer of Germany he now wanted to become conqueror of the world. The treaties he had made were regarded by him as just scraps of paper and he had laid waste the countries of all his neighbours. He was like a storm that swept over the world, uprooting mighty trees that were once great nations and his armies like a herd of elephants trampled on the flower that was mankind.

* * *

So he came to the cross roads. One road pointed to the conquest of Britain. The other was to lead him to war on Russia. Hitler chose the latter. One year he has fought with his fury. He wanted to tread the path on which Napoleon had tried to walk many years ago and failed. He wanted to liquidate what he had called in Mein Kempf "the scum of the earth." The pact had only served his purpose and now he was on his great march on the road to Moscow—on the road to Leningrad from which he believed he would never turn back.

* * *

But the Little Father moved in his grave. The years of bloodshed and the October revolution were not to be in vain. The sacrifices of a whole people who had bled to usher a new era could not be dismissed in the twinkling of an eye. May be even God was on the side of the Bolshies and the weather changed and the tide turned and the Panzer divisions cried halt outside the very gates of the cities for which they were heading. Out of nothing there came new hope to the world and democracy felt as if it would have a new lease for life. A tired world awoke to see Timoshenko's name blaze across the front page as Hitler's columns were going down in speedy defeat. All this has happened in one crucial year.
